

February Yearbook 2013

Due: Friday 1st March

The presentation of these tasks can be of your own choosing. Please use one of your display folders to hand in your yearbook work.

Task 1: Exposition

There is an old saying which states, "Children should be seen and not heard"

Write an exposition to argue why the children of 2013 should be seen and definitely heard. Be thoughtful in your arguments.

This should be at least three-quarters of a page long.

Task 2: Information Report

Write an information report about Chinese New Year (Lunar New Year) which is coming up on the 10th February. Write it in your own words and include a bibliography at the end with at least two different sources. Use sub-headings and include photos or illustrations.

This should be approximately one and a half pages long.

Task 3: Newspaper report

Write a newspaper report about any current affairs issue from February. Get your information from a variety of sources (at least two) and include them in a bibliography. Present it in columns as a report with a photo or illustration. Make sure to include a few quotes from people involved if your sources have any.

This should be over half a page long.
