

The Secret

'Here we go again,' I thought as my roommate kept bragging on. He does that because he is, and I will admit it, the 2nd most powerful superhero in the world. But what he didn't know is that I am the first. His code name is Code Black.

'I am the best, I am the best,' he bragged. 'Shush up,' I said loudly. 'I'm trying to sleep.'

Now, I didn't mention where we are... My parents made me go to Hills Cross Boarding School. The chances of getting a roommate with the 2nd most powerful super powers ever and the worst bragger in the world were pretty slim.

The next day, a new kid came to Hills Cross. His name was Jack and you won't believe which room he got put in? Ours!

Jack was pretty short. He wore long grey socks which worked out nicely with his small black boots. He had smooth short blonde hair and also wore brown glasses over his blue eyes. When he walked into our room, he took no notice of us and dumped his suitcase, laptop and books on MY desk. Then he took a note out of his jacket, put it on my bed, and left the room.

The note said:

Please meet me in the science room at first break.

It is an emergency!

We bolted out of our room, down the stairs and out in to the main playground. It was a strange sight. There were alarms blaring everywhere and shooting red lights crashing to the ground. I realised that it was time to reveal my secret.

I clicked my fingers and the noise stopped. The lights faded away and the alarms stopped blaring. Just then, the first break bell went. Remembering what it had said on the note, I ran to the science room. Jack was sitting at a table at the front of the class room.

'I'm glad you're here,' he said. Jack went over to a computer in the corner. He looked up Ms Hudson, the school principal's profile.

The occupation said: School Principal/Supervillain! My mouth dropped open. But before I could react, Jack said, 'She knows you are superheroes. She wants you out of the school!

About 2 minutes later I arrived in the principal's office. 'I've been expecting you,' she said. 'Now we will begin a challenge. Whoever defeats the other person wins. The challenge starts now!

Firstly, I clicked my fingers and Ms Hudson went flying to the floor. She slowly got up with a hand on her back. She was so mad that whirlpools erupted from her hands and mini active volcanos came out of her ears. And she fired them all at me! I had just enough time to quickly put a shield around me. The principal bounced off the shield and fell to the ground. Dead. I let out a huge sigh of relief and ran back to our room.

I was in bed and then Black started bragging again. But this time it wasn't about him!

Written by Oscar Cox 5/6A