

Perfect Shadows

The wind whipped through the trees as I climbed the path to the old abandoned cathedral...

I was bloodthirsty for revenge, not knowing what had happened to my father. It was told that he was murdered in the cathedral deep down in Hills Cross Valley.

As I walked into the valley I could see the snails getting to work on the wooden frames of the rotted roof of the cathedral. The walls were run down and the windows were shattered. The tree branches stretched over the entrance, concluding that this cathedral was unmistakably abandoned. As I walked inside I saw the grave of my father which stated:

Frank Cross

Murdered by The Crushed Island Legend

16th October 2039

R.I.P

Now if you go to the cathedral in Hills Cross Valley today, you can see the perfect shadows over the grave of my father, left by the Crushed Island Legend, letting everybody know that he will be back to murder somebody else and the story will no doubt continue.