

No Way Out!

If only I'd listened to Mrs Scruttlescromp I wouldn't have had to pay the price for what I have done. The sunlight shined down on me through the clouds in the sky as I walked into a room with no roof. I wondered why there was barbed wire all around the room, until I saw it. It's scales had slime all over them and it was dreary to look at. The monster hissed and shook its evil complexion of a tongue hanging out of its mouth. I started wimping with shock and it took that as its ammunition to kill me. Farewell world I thought as I started running from the beast.
